Respectfully Submitted,
Shena Ray, Administrative Assistant

Mike Elbe

United Way Board President

I said this at our campaign kick-off event last fall that "All organizational growth begins with momentum."

This past year has been a transformational year for United Way of Adams County. A new Executive Director in our leader, Todd Bale, new staff members who are making a big difference, an updated strategic plan that board members, partner agencies and staff collaborated for nearly a year to finalize, a newly formed campaign cabinet led by Hal Oakley, new board members and a new partner agency in Horizons highlight a year that has given this organization momentum. This momentum is leading UWAC to significant and sustainable growth.

Living and being active in Adams County, I continue to see the impact of this organization. Our main purposes in life is to work together to add value to our community. UWAC continues to add value to the people and children in our area. As we reflect on another year, there are many accomplishments to celebrate. My attitude is one of gratitude to all of you who have supported United Way of Adams County. Thank you for believing, investing, and supporting in our Mission "to inspire, unite, and empower the people of Adams County to reach their full human potential."

I am honored to serve this organization and your support this past year is valued and appreciated.

30 Years of Good News of Christmas

The Good News of Christmas campaign, sponsored by the Herald-Whig, is in its 30th annual campaign of spreading holiday cheer to families in need.

The Good News of Christmas campaign, sponsored by the Herald-Whig, recently completed its 30th annual campaign of spreading holiday cheer to families in need.

More than $1.75 million, along with countless volunteer hours and services, has been donated to help more than 1,500 families get back on their feet since the campaign's inception in 1988.

Families throughout the Herald-Whig's circulation area in Illinois and Missouri are selected each year to receive aid by caseworkers familiar with their plights.

Citizens, businesses, schools and organizations in West-central Illinois and Northeast Missouri respond overwhelmingly each year, a demonstration of the region's deep-rooted compassion and generosity.

Since 2003, the Herald-Whig has partnered with United Way of Adams County in coordinating the project.

New Board Member Spotlight

Chaka Batley

Pediatric Nurse Practitioner, Quincy Medical Group
Born and raised in Keokuk, IA

Chaka attended Blessing-Reiman College of Nursing and received her undergraduate nursing degree in 2008. She joined Quincy Medical Group in 2011 as a Pediatric Nurse Practitioner and relocated to the Quincy area. She received her Doctorate in Nursing Practice from the University of Iowa in 2013 and is board certified through the Pediatric Nursing Certification Board. Her current role at Quincy Medical Group involves building relationships with families within the community to improve lives, creating a healthier tomorrow. She received her Master of Business Administration (MBA) from Culver-Stockton College in 2017. Chaka is currently pursuing her Post-Masters Psychiatric Nurse Practitioner Certificate through Johns Hopkins School of Nursing with a passion to help alleviate the stigma surrounding mental illness.

Chaka volunteers in several leadership roles in the community to encourage others to be proactive and a positive role model for future generations. Chaka is married to her wonderful husband of nearly 15 years, has six children, and three grandchildren. She is dedicated to using the opportunities that God places before her to empower others to face adversity and embrace individuality while discovering we all are created to make a difference.

Ben Van Ness

General Sales Manager at WGEM
Born and raised in Quincy, IL

Ben Van Ness joins the United Way Board this year bringing years of professional experience along with him. Currently at WGEM, Ben represents the sixth generation of their family in the media business and the fifth generation of community and civic leadership with United Way and its predecessor organization in Adams County.

"I joined the United Way Board because it's fun to help others. It's really that simple." Van Ness says.

Aside from assisting those in need within our community Ben looks forward to learning more about the 20 wonderful partner agencies that United Way serves and the great work they do.

Campaign volunteers for United Way visit Horizons Social Services to learn more about where the community's dollars are invested.

Seeing is Believing

Longtime United Way supporter Jim Sours knows the importance of a stronger and healthier community.

Jim Sours

United Way Board Member,
Loaned Executive, Resource
Investment Chair, and United Way
Volunteer of the Year

How many years have you been involved with the resource investment process?

I've helped lead the process as a board representative for the past three years.

If you were to explain what a resource investment volunteer does, how would you explain it?

A volunteer will contribute their time, attention, and presence to complete the due diligence necessary to recommend (within the approved allocation) the amount of funding for an Agency's program request.

What led you to take part in the resource investment process?

I was asked to be involved the first year, and after that experience I realized the true importance to our community. Working with talented United Way staff, volunteers, and our partner agencies to improve the conditions and lives of Adams County residents is rewarding and the right thing to do.

What was the most surprising thing you learned throughout your time serving as a resource investment volunteer/leader?

The resilience of the agency personnel despite the constant challenge of need exceeding resources. This is a generous community and we are blessed to have non-profit agency personnel and boards with the ability and intent to start and end every day with patience, passion and persistence.

What was the most compelling reason to continue to serve on the team?

The Community Assessment outlines the areas of need and the impact past efforts have and are making in addressing them. I like to be proactive and productive and feel that working and thinking together is an effective way to make a positive difference.

Why do you think this process works well and is a rewarding experience for volunteers?

First-hand knowledge and exposure to details broadens our perspective. Being in a position to take action permits us to contribute time, talent and treasure to make a difference.

WANT TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE?

If you or your organization is interested in becoming more involved with a volunteer opportunity, please contact the United Way office at 217-222-5020.

The Quincy Area Partnership for Unmet Needs was established to assist individuals and families who had exhausted all other avenues of assistance. Recognizing that financial stability is one of three building blocks of a good quality of life, Unmet Needs pools private donations and church pledges to provide stability during a crisis or other difficult situation.

The Quincy Area Partnership for Unmet Needs exists to compliment the social service system by compassionately responding through networking and collaborative funding provided by individual agencies, churches and human service organizations to meet the needs of all individuals in our community that may exceed the limits of any agency.

After the flood of 1993, a group of human service and faith based organizations collaborated to help flood victims in Adams County with long-term recovery. However, the financial needs did not recede with the flood waters. There continued to be individuals and families in crisis who had nowhere else to turn. In 1997, United Way of Adams County took a leadership role to formalize the structure of the post-flood committee and create the Quincy Area Partnership for Unmet Needs. Today, United Way provides administrative support and fiscal services for the Unmet Needs Partnership.

Thank you “Knap” for being such a great community champion

2018 COMMUNITY HERO AWARD Recipient

1989 campaign chairman, “Knap” was a proud supporter of United Way, believing everyone could do their part for the community they lived in.

H. W. “Knap” Knapheide III, former President of The Knapheide Manufacturing Company of Quincy, is the 2018 United Way Community Champion. Knap, as he was commonly referred to by friends and family, passed away on August 28, 2018.

Knap was a 1963 Quincy High School graduate and 1967 graduate of Kansas University. He was Director of the Quincy Area Project, was Past Chairman of the Blessing Hospital Board, a former Director for Mercantile Trust and Savings Bank. He served on the boards of the Quincy Society of Fine Arts, the Quincy YMCA and Adams County, and he was a founding board member of the Community Foundation Serving West Central Illinois and Northeast Missouri. He chaired or co-chaired the Salvation Army Campaign of Lights, the Quincy University’s GOAL 2000 Capital Campaign, the United Way of Adams County Campaign and the Quincy YMCA Traditions for Tomorrow Capital Campaign.

Knap was a devoted family man who loved spending time with his family. So many lives have been touched by his kindness and quiet generosity. Knap loved and supported the Quincy community with his time and his resources.

United Way is proud to award Knap this level of our appreciation. Through his generosity many lives were touched and the community as a whole is stronger because of him. We couldn’t think of anyone better to receive this prestigious award. Congratulations Knap.

Adams Telephone Cooperative has been supporting United Way of Adams County for decades. They embody what it means to give, advocate and volunteer for the organization, and understand the important role United Way plays within the Adams County community.

Mike Ridder, Chief Operating Officer of Adams Fiber, has been on the United Way Board since 2017, and was instrumental in helping them raise over $11,000 for United Way during the 2018 #MakeHEREHappen campaign. Their employee and corporate contributions helped United Way meet their goal ($1,050,000) for the first time since 2014, and exceed the $1M mark for the first time since 2017. This will result in approximately $600K in investment funds allocated by volunteers to our partner agencies for the year.

Adams provides the region with telephone and broadband Internet services in places where there was previously little or no coverage, and they've done it by continually improving and expanding technology while delivering personal, responsive service to every customer.

"Ensuring our communities grow and thrive is a passion of Adams Fiber and we are committed to our region with our investments in it," says Ridder. "For over a decade, Adams has seen the benefits of partnering with the United Way by working collectively and maximizing our employee's donations. The United Way's commitment to the people and communities in our area provides all of us with a better quality of life."

As a corporate donor and workplace dedicated to significantly and consistently supporting the United Way mission, the staff and board of United Way of Adams County proudly present the Small Business Hero Award to Adams Fiber.

Partner Agency of the Year

For constantly offering their staff and support to our campaign, solution teams, and volunteer events.

Transitions of Western Illinois

The partnership between United Way of Adams County and Transitions of Western Illinois goes back a long ways. Located in Quincy, IL, Transitions was founded in 1955 as the Adams County Mental Health Center. For over 60 years, they have served the Adams County area providing high quality, affordable mental health, educational, and rehabilitation services.

A United Way partner agency, Transitions is CARF (Commission for the Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities) accredited. This accreditation ensures that our services meet industry standards and are of the highest quality. They provide human services that inspire growth and empower people of all abilities to live full and meaningful lives.

Transitions of Western Illinois is a charitable, not-for-profit agency that provides an array of mental health, rehabilitation, and educational services. Hope, and a belief in people's ability to change, form the foundation of their services. They help people of all ages and people with diverse needs. Annually, Transitions' programs and services touch the lives of almost 9,000 area residents.

Transitions of Western Illinois has also been a strong supporter of United Way of Adams County, especially over the past year. Executive Director, Mark Schmitz, worked alongside many other community-minded individuals this past year to help develop United Way's '2021: Strategic Plan' for Adams County. Mark also serves on the Mental Health Community Solutions team and Barb Chapin serves on the Community Building Council and Unmet Needs committees. Transitions also participated in our 2018 Day of Caring event in June and had many service projects for our volunteers to assist with including cleaning their bus and van fleet ensuring continued safe use of their vehicles.

United Way values all of our wonderful partners throughout the year, and we congratulate Transitions on this accomplishment.
